PRINTER TO THE UNIVERSITY

PREFACE.

THE delay that has occurred in completing this work has been to a great extent unavoidable. Professor Westwood's death and the time which elapsed before his successor was in due course appointed, and the alterations and improvements that were subsequently made in the Hope Department of the University Museum, closed the collection of insects for many months, and when I was able to recommence the work I had many other interests in hand, and was able to give only a portion of my time to it.

The Pyralidina were practically completed in 1893, and the Geometrina in 1894. I left the Noctuidina to the last, so that I might take advantage of Sir George F. Hampson's classification; vol. ii. of his Moths of India being then in the press. Finally, I decided to wait for the conclusion of his revision of the whole of the Indian Heterocera before going to press.

I have been very careful to keep separate, under their distinctive names, the various local and varietal forms of each species. To mix such forms up together as synonyms of the parent species is to do an absolute injury to science, rendering a collection comparatively useless for the purposes of reference. We thus lose one chief interest of our subject, the inquiry into the subsequent fate of a parent species as it branches off into the various sub-specific local and varietal forms, some of these again becoming established, and forming parent species.

In such inquiries as these, the study of classification and geographical distribution becomes the study of evolution, a doctrine which is now recognized as giving the chief inspiration to any zoological inquiry.

I have had very great difficulty in finding some of the types referred to in this work, and some of those still missing, as shown in the list at the end of this volume, probably still exist in the Department. Many years ago, some one, not acquainted with the types in the Hope collection of moths, weeded out many faded-looking specimens and deposited them in old drawers and cases now in the loft at the top of the building. I think I have now searched through every case and box, and have recorded all that I can recognize: none of the specimens thus separated having names attached to them, it has been very slow and difficult work to establish their identity; fortunately they all still retain Wallace's well-known locality labels.

I have to thank Professor Poulton for much kindly assistance, Lord Walsingham and Mr. John Hartley Durrant for being so good as to work out the Pterophoridae and Tineina, Sir George F. Hampson for assistance in the earlier part of the work, and to Mr. W. Warren, whose unrivalled knowledge of the Geometrina has been of the greatest assistance.

Differs from crepuscularis in having the inner band below the ocellus brown and sinuous, instead of straight and outwardly margined with white as in crepuscularis: the straight discal band across both wings very broad, both above and below; I have it also from the Philippines: it is well figured by Clerck.

1885. Nyctipao variegata. nov.

♂ Colour chocolate brown as in crepuscularis Linn.: fore-wings with the sub-apical white spots, the ocellus and band round it as in that species; but this band below the ocellus is indented on the sub-median vein: the discal area is more or less suffused with white: on the hind-wings there are four brown bands at equal distances apart, inside the sub-marginal band which is highly sinuous and distorted as in crepuscularis; but the 1st and 2nd bands are sinuous and not straight, and the 3rd and 4th are lunular, with spear-shaped white marks on their outer sides; there is a large white spot with a smaller one below it at the apex, and the disc is more or less suffused with white; below, the margin is broadly brown; the submarginal spots on both wings very large: the inner area on some specimens is ochreous grey, and on others pure white.

Expanse of wings, $4\frac{2}{10}$ inches.

♂♀ The Australian form of G. geometrica Fabr. differs from the European, Asian, and African forms in the outer white band of the fore-wings, which runs straight down to the hinder margin, instead of being bent inwardly just above the hinder margin and running almost on to the first white band, as in geometrica. I have examined a good number of specimens from many localities, and find this very distinctive character constant in the Australian form.

GENUS SPECTROPHYSA. nov.

♂ Fore-wing with the costa strongly arched at base and before apex, slightly sinuate between, outer margin incurved below vein 4 to vein 2 where it joins the hinder margin which is curved so as to form almost a semicircle, broader than the upper half of the wing, and containing a similarly shaped, large, semi-hyaline space, limited below by vein 1, which is curved parallel to the hinder margin of the wing; cell not quite half the length of the wing, discocellular sinuous; vein 2 from before middle of cell, irregularly contorted and reaching outer margin at the incision; 3 from before end of cell, 4 from the end; 5 from a little above the lower end, 6 from the upper third of discocellulars, both curved downwards at origin; 7, 8, and 9 stalked, 10 anastomosing with 8 and 9; 11 free and from before middle of cell; all the veins slightly curved.

Hind-wing with costa sinuous, strongly shouldered at base, the apex subtruncate, outer margin rounded and waved; veins 3 and 4, and 6 and 7 from the angles of cell; 5 from below the middle; 8 curved, parallel to the costal margin: palpi porreit, long; the second joint hairy below; the third half as long as the second, slender and acuminate.

2156. Spectrophysa distorta. nov.

♂ Fore-wings dull yellowish ochreous, finely irrorated with brown: lines dark brown: 1st sinuous from costa at one-fourth to hinder marginal third; touching near base of cell an irregular ocelloid brown-edged spot: 2nd from middle of costa to three-fourths of hinder margin, touching a double hyaline white, brown-edged somewhat 8-shaped mark below the discocellulars: 3rd from two-thirds of costa, curved inwards to near base of discal spot and then approaching second line, then diverging to anal angle; the space beyond the discal mark, except on costa, and the whole of the space beyond third line, suffused with brownish: the marginal space outside the strongly curved sub-median vein also more or less suffused with brown, cilia varied with brown and ochreous; the semicircular space between the median and sub-median veins semi-hyaline, whitish, crossed by three dark transverse lines.

Hind-wing with the ochreous ground colour, nearly wholly suffused with brownish, especially along costal space, two dark brown crenulate lines, medial and post-medial, the space between them, towards inner margin paler: a pale spot on discocellulars; cilia pale, mottled with brown beyond the ends of the veins and with a slightly darker basal line.

Face and collar white, palpi, thorax, and abdomen pale brown; the abdomen with white segmental rings, legs and underside of abdomen white.

Expanse of wings, $1\frac{6}{10}$ inches.

GENUS STADNA. nov.

♂ Palpi porrect, long, 2nd joint much thickened, club shaped, 3rd joint with a fringe of short hair below and ending in a point as in Prolophota, Hampson; antennæ minutely ciliated; fore-wing with the costa straight, apex rounded, outer margin concurve; hind-wing with the outer margin rounded; mid- and hind-tibiæ with slight tufts of hair; a tuft of scales standing up, behind the collar.

2270. Stadna nigriplaga. nov. Pl. IV. f. 24.

♂ Greyish brown: fore-wings with outwardly curved transverse pale lines made up of connected lunules, ante-medial, and post-medial, a sub-marginal similar line on both wings, also a deep black marginal lunular line, with pale outer marks on the cilia: fore-wings with a deep black spot at end of cell, a black prominent patch on hinder margin at end of 2nd line, with a corresponding and much larger black patch on the centre of the hind-wings, divided near the abdominal margin.

Expanse of wings, $\frac{7}{10}$ inch.

a. Silhet.
(Wallace).

b. Cambodia, Siam (Mouhot).

c. Amboina

d. Without locality (2).

2308. Acropterus rectinervata.

- Micronia rectinervata* ♂. Guen.: Phal., ii. 27. 933 (1857).
 _____ Walker: xxiii. 818 (1861).
Micronia leptaliata ♀. Guen.: l. c., 28. 935.
 _____ Walker: xiii. 823.

- a. Singapore (Wallace). b. Sarawak (Wallace). c. Borneo.
d. Without locality. e. Sumatra (Wallace).

This species much resembles A. striataria, but there is a difference in the venation of the male.

2309. Acropteris teriadata.

- Micronia teriadata*. Guen. : Phal., ii. 29. 936 (1857).

Type. Cherra Punji, in coll. Staudinger.

a. India. b. Khasia Hills (2).

Sir George Hampson has grouped all these smaller Hypochrosis in one species under Guenee's hyadaria, from want I presume of sufficient material to judge by; I have long series of each of these four species in my coll. hyadaria = obliquaria, galbulata, abstractaria, and ignivorata. They seem to me to be very distinct from each other, and have no intermediates.

b. India (Ashmol. Mus.).

2379. Hypochrosis pyreniata.

Nabla pyreniata. Walker : xxxv. 1668 (1866).

a. Singapore (type) (Wallace).

The type specimen has lost all but the basal portions of its antennæ, and consequently looks like a worn example of Curbia martiata, Guen. : but fresh specimens show the species to be very distinct, it has pectinated antennæ.

a. Flores (type ♀) (Wallace).

The type specimen is a female, and is much rubbed above, Warren put it with P. breta; and though he says inceptaria is the type of his genus Psilalcis, he describes the male: but no male of this species from Flores or from any of the Islands is known, and he has really taken breta ♂ as the type of his genus: in my opinion the two species are not the same, the wings of inceptaria are too much rubbed for use in comparison, but Walker's description of it does not correspond with breta, and inceptaria has no signs of the prominent black bands on the fore-tibiæ always present in all the specimens of the long series of breta in my collection.

The type alienaria is in this Museum from Silhet, and not in the British Museum from Ceylon, as has been supposed; in every instance in Walker's Catalogue when the type is in coll. Saunders and the species is also represented in the B. M., the locality of the type is given without a letter, and is then followed by the localities with letters showing from whence the species is also represented in the B. M.; when it is not represented in the B. M., the locality is followed by the words 'in coll. Saunders,' but not otherwise.

The type specimen is much worn, and the pale fuscous grey blotches, which are really the distinguishing character of this species, are obsolete in the type specimen. Walker erected the genus on the Indian species bigutta, which is a true Abraxid; he then described delineata, circumdata, comparata, discifera, and terminata, all Lymantrids (the first three being one and the same thing), under his genus Genusa, and then in describing destituta, which is hardly separable from the type of the genus, he put it as doubtfully belonging to the genus, doubtless having his attention fixed on the Lymantrids which he had wrongly put into the group.

Rhodoneura fenestrata. Hampson: l. c., p. 620.

Oxycophina subfenestrata. Warren: l. c., iii. p. 342.

Canæa plana. Walker: MS.

Type. Queensland, in coll. McLeay.

Type (subfenestrata). New Britain, in coll. Rothschild.

a. Aru (Wallace).

Palpi thick, well clothed, upturned, reaching vertex of head, venation as in Rhodoneura; antennæ of ♂ bipectinated with short thick bristles.

GENUS ADDÆA. Walker: xxxiv. 1201 (1865).

Mesopempta. Meyrick: Trans. Ent. Soc., Lond., 1886, p. 217.

3137. Addæa candidalis.

Pyralis candidalis. Walker: xxxiv. 1239.

Rhodoneura candidalis. Pag.: Iris, v. p. 57 (1892).

Addæa candidalis. Hampson: (part) P. Z. S., Lond., 1897, p. 632.

Pyralis obliqualis. Walker: xxxiv. 1522.

Rhodoneura obliqualis. Pag.: l. c.

Siculodes bivittata. Pag.: J. B. Nass. Ver., 1886, p. 60.

Type. Ceram, in B. M.

a. Aru (type obliqualis) (Wallace). b. New Guinea (2) (Wallace).

Sir George Hampson, P. Z. S., 1897, p. 632, puts Siculodes striola, Felder, Reise Nov. Lep., pl. 134, f. 14, as a synonym, with which I do not agree: but at p. 622, No. 77, he makes mention of Rhodoneura striola, Felder, pl. 134, f. 15: this is a misprint, it should be xanthina.

3138. Addæa polygraphalis.

Pyralis polygraphalis. Walker: xxxiv. 1245 (1865).

Addæa polygraphalis. Hampson: (part) P. Z. S., Lond., 1897, p. 632.

Botys (?) transversalis. Walker: xxxiv. 1415.

Pyralis polyphoralis. Walker: xxxv. 1977 (1866).

Type. Swan River, in B. M.

- a. Sarawak, Borneo (type transversalis) (Wallace). b. New Guinea (Wallace).
c. Sula (Wallace).

FAMILY GALLERIIDÆ.

GENUS TIRATHABA. Walker: xxx. 961 (1864).

Mucialla. Walker: xxxv. 1739 (1866).

Heteromicta pachytera. Meyrick: Trans. Ent. Soc., Lond., 1887, p. 251.

Type. Hobart, in coll. Raynor.

- a. Van Diemen's Land (Burchell coll.).

GENUS HARPAGONEURA. Butler: Ann. Mag. N. H. (5), xv. p. 242 (1885).

3142. Harpagoneura complexa.

Harpagoneura complexa. Butler: l. c.

Type. Ellice Islands, in B. M.

- a. Mysol (Wallace).

3143. Harpagoneura complana.

- Aphomia* (?) complana. Felder: Reise Nov. Lep., pl. 137, f. 6 (1874).
 Type. Amboina, in coll. Rothschild.
 a. Ceram (Wallace).

GENUS ETHOPIA. Walker: xxxi. 233 (1864).

3144. Ethopia roseilinea. Pl. VII. f. 4.

- Ethopia roseilinea*. Walker: xxxi. 234.
 a. N. Guinea (type).

The type specimen is a male, not female as stated by Walker.

GENUS MELISSOBLAPTES. Zeller: Iris, 1839, p. 180.

Bapara. Walker: xxxii. 602 (1865).

Crambus trogiodytellus. Snellen: Tijd. voor Ent. (2), vii. p. 103, pl. 8, f. 6 (1864).

Type. Ceylon, in B. M.

Type (cærella). Ceylon, in B. M.

- a. Sarawak, Borneo (type hastiferalis) (Wallace). b. Sarawak (Wallace).

Meyrick, in Trans. Ent. Soc., Lond., 1887, p. 272, sinks this species under Thiallela signifera, Walker xxvii. p. 120, the type of which from Sarawak is probably in the B. M., but I have not been able to find it; and it is not mentioned by Hampson in his monograph of the family in P. Z. S., 1895.

GENUS PLATYTES. Guen.: Eur. Microlep. Ind. Méth., p. 86 (1854).

d. India (2).

The different type specimens differ very much in size, but I cannot see by what character they can be separated; there are five specimens in this collection and seven in mine from several localities in India and Ceylon, and they vary in size from $\frac{6}{10}$ inch, the smallest male, to $1\frac{6}{10}$ inch, the largest female.

3243. Eoöphylla waigaoalis. nov. Pl. VI. f. 29.Aulacodes waigaoalis. Swinhoe MS. Hampson: Trans. Ent. Soc., Lond., 1897, p. 177.

♂ Orange yellow; fore-wings with a broad white streak from the base to the middle, its lower portion joining a broad discal transverse white band, also a submarginal similar but narrower white band, black marginal lunular line, white cilia interlined with a fine brown line; hind-wings with the immediate base orange coloured, otherwise the basal third of the wing is white, limited by a slight brown shade, rest of the wing pure orange yellow, with two rows of small black spots in pairs in the centre portion of the outer margin, abdomen with white bands, hind-tarsi white.

Expanse of wings, $\frac{9}{10}$ inch.

a. Waigiu (type) (Wallace).

GENUS THEILA. nov.

Differs from Eoöphyla in the fore-wing of the male, having the costa highly arched in the middle, a slight costal fringe on the upper side on the basal half; a thick fringe of long hair in the cell, expanding at the end.

a. Sarawak, Borneo (type) (Wallace).

3316. Pagyda furcatalis. nov. Pl. VII. f. 12.Pagyda furcatalis. Walker: MS.

♂ Ochreous, pectus pure white, wings with the transverse bands very thick and dark reddish ochreous, first band from costal third to centre of abdominal margin, second band from centre of costa (not touching it) to anal angle, third band from one third before apex of fore-wings curving inwards and stopping short below vein three, close to the second line, fourth band submarginal, arising from near band three below the costa, deeply curved outwards on fore-wings, less curved on hind-wings where it is nearer the margin.

Expanse of wings, $\frac{9}{10}$ inch.

a. New Guinea (type) (Wallace).

Differs from salvalis, Walker, and botyidalis, Snellen, in being darker, bands thicker, the third band curving in to the second on fore-wings, and the peculiar shape of the submarginal band on both wings.

3317. Pagyda holonalis. nov. Pl. VII. f. 22.

♂ Ochreous, allied to salvalis, Walker, of the same colour and size, differs in having the third band on fore-wings bent a little outwards before the middle, and extending down towards the hinder angle where it nearly joins the submarginal band, which is more regular and more curved below the apex; the bands also are sinuous and not straight.

Expanse of wings, $\frac{9}{10}$ inch.

a. Sarawak, Borneo (type) (Wallace).

The type is said to have come from the Cape of Good Hope, but Lederer erected the genus on a specimen from Amboina: in the male it has a tuft of long hairs on the hind-tibiæ, and a tuft of long hairs on the inner area of hind-wings: Snellen records it from India, Trans. Ent. Soc., Lond., 1890, p. 11, but this is a mistake, the examples in coll. Elwes therein referred to, are males of vertumnalis: Lederer's squamopedalis is a much larger insect with the tuft of hairs on the hind-leg, larger, pale reddish-brown in colour, not blackish-brown as in the Indian insect.

———— P. Z. S., Lond., 1899, p. 178.

Type. N. India, in B. M.

a. Khasia Hills (2).

3539. Meroctena sirioxantha.

Ligropis sirioxantha. Meyrick: Trans. Ent. Soc., Lond., 1886, p. 262.

Meroctena staintoni. Hampson: (part) P. Z. S., Lond., 1899, p. 178.

Type. Fiji, in B. M.

a. Sumatra (Wallace).

I do not know where the type of staintoni, Led., is deposited: but Lederer's figures are very good, and his figure of staintoni does not resemble sirioxantha.

GENUS ARCHERNIS. Meyrick: Proc. Linn. Soc., N. S. W., 1887, p. 254.

Chrysommatodes. Warren: Ann. Mag. N. H. (6), xvii.
p. 105 (1896).

3540. Archernis scopulalis.

Botys scopulalis. Walker: xxxiv. 1438 (1865).

Archernis scopulalis. Hampson: P. Z. S., Lond., 1899, p. 181.

a. Flores (type) (Wallace).

3541. Archernis ignealis. Pl. VIII. f. 29.

Botys ignealis. Walker: xxxiv. 1423 (1865).

Archernis ignealis. Hampson: P. Z. S., Lond., 1899, p. 181.

a. Morty (type) (Wallace).

GENUS METOPORTHA. Meyrick: Trans. Ent. Soc., Lond., 1894, p. 463.

3542. Metoportha dolopsalis.

Botys dolopsalis. Walker: xviii. 692 (1859).

Metoportha dolopsalis. Meyrick: l. c.

Archernis dolopsalis. Hmn.: (part) Faun. Brit. Ind. Moths, iv. p. 379 (1896).
P. Z. S., Lond., 1899, p. 181.

Botys fimbripunctalis. Walker: xxxiv. 1425 (1865).

a. Sarawak, Borneo (type ♂) (Wallace). b. Mysol (type ♀ fimbripunctalis) (Wallace). c. New Guinea (Wallace).

GENUS TERASTIA. Guen.: Delt. et Pyral., p. 211 (1854).

3543. Terastia subjectalis.

Terastia subjectalis. Led.: Wien. Ent. Mon., vii. p. 480 (1863).

Walker: xxxiv. 1308 (1865).

Hmn.: Ill. Typ. Lep. Het., B. M., ix. 44. 1160 (1893).

Megaphysa quadratalis. Walker: xxxiv. 1527.

Terastia meticulosalis. Hmn.: (part) Faun. Brit. Ind. Moths, iv. p. 381 (1896).
P. Z. S., Lond., 1899, p. 182.

Type (quadratalis). Java, in B. M.

a. India. b. Bombay (2).

3544. Terastia egialealis.

Megaphysa egialealis. Walker: xvii. 383 (1859).

S. and C.: Cat. Moths of India, v. 632. 4294 (1888).

Terastia egialealis. Hampson: Faun. Brit. Ind. Moths, iv. p. 381 (1896).

P. Z. S., Lond., 1899, p. 182.

Terastia proceralis. Led.: Wien. Ent. Mon., vii. p. 480 (1863).

Walker: xxxiv. 1308 (1865).

Swinhoe and Cotes: l. c., 631. 4284.

Snellen: Trans. Ent. Soc., Lond., 1890, p. 622.

Agathodes diversalis. Walker: xxxiv. 1307.

Moore: P. Z. S., Lond., 1867, p. 90.

Swinhoe and Cotes: l. c., 631. 4283.

Megaphysa quadriferalis. Walker: xxxiv. 1528.

Type (diversalis). Darjiling, in B. M.

Type (quadriferalis). Java, in B. M.

a. India (type). b. India.

GENUS OMPHISA. Moore: Lep. Ceylon, iii. p. 317 (1886).

3545. Omphisa illisalis.

Botys illisalis. Walker: xviii. 653 (1859).

Led.: Wien. Ent. Mon., vii. p. 371, pl. 9, f. 12 (1863).

Moore: P. Z. S., Lond., 1877, p. 619.

Omphisa illisalis. Moore: l. c., p. 318, pl. 183, f. 4.

Omphisa anastomosalis. Hmn.: (part) Ill. Typ. Lep. Het., B. M., ix. 44. 1159 (1893).

————— Faun. Brit. Ind. Moths, iv. p. 382 (1896).
 ————— P. Z. S., Lond., 1899, p. 183.

Type. Ceylon, in B. M.

a. Morty (Wallace).

The type of the genus: not anastomosalis, as stated by Hampson, Moths, iv. p. 382; Hampson's figure represents illialis.

3546. Omphisa anastomosalis.

Pionea anastomosalis. Guen.: Delt. et Pyral., 373. 467 (1854).

————— Walker: xviii. 760 (1859).

————— Hmn.: Ill. Typ. Lep. Het., B. M., viii. 35. 994 (1891).

Omphisa anastomosalis. Hmn.: (part) Faun. Brit. Ind. Moths, iv. p. 382 (1896).
 ————— P. Z. S., Lond., 1899, p. 183.

a. Sula (Wallace). b. Aru (Wallace).

Quite distinct from illialis; I have a fine series of the different forms of this genus: the illialis, reported by Moore from Darjiling, in P. Z. S., Lond., 1867, p. 96, is repetitalis, Snellen, which is also quite distinct.

GENUS ISOCENTRIS. Meyrick: Trans. Ent. Soc., Lond., 1887, p. 232.

Leucocraspeda. Warren: Ann. Mag. N. H. (6), vi. p. 475 (1890).

3547. Isocentris illectalis.

3624. Gonæpa josianella, Wkr.

Gonæpa josianella, Wkr., Cat. Lp. Ins. BM. XXXV. 1840 (1866)¹.

Antennæ, Palpi, Head and Thorax purplish brown, the palpi paler beneath. Forewings purplish brown along the costal half, the brown colour extending across the wing at the base, almost to the extreme edge of the dorsum; the remainder of the wing orange-yellow to the tornus, extending along the lower half of the termen, the division between the two colours not abruptly defined; at about one-fifth from the apex a slight orange yellow streak passes through the brown into the yellow portion of the wing; this is somewhat distinctly margined by a brown streak on its inner side; cilia brown, with a pale yellow line at their base; underside corresponding to the upper side in colour. Exp. al. 23 mm. Hindwings pale orange yellow, purplish brown at the extreme base; the hinder margin broadly purplish fuscous, into which the yellow colour extends in short tooth-like projections along or between the veins; a small purplish fuscous spot lies on the upper edge of the cell at one-third from the base; underside corresponding to the upper side in colour. Abdomen purplish brown at the base, with a broad yellow band across the middle, corresponding to the yellow space in the wings when expanded. Legs yellowish, with purplish brown bands across the ends of the tarsi and tibiæ.

Type ♂. Mus. Br. (Saunders Coll., acquired 1894).

ODITES, Wlsm., Tr. Ent. Soc. Lond. 1891, 99-102, Pl. VII. 80.

3626. Odites bambusæ, Wlsm. sp. n.

Antennæ whitish fawn, annulate with brown. Palpi, median joint very long, scarcely recurved, terminal joint slender recurved; whitish fawn. Head whitish fawn-colour. Thorax fawn-colour. Forewings pale fawn, with two small fuscous spots on the disc before the middle, of which the lower is nearer the base than the upper, a third spot at the end of the cell preceded by a smaller one a little above and before it; a brownish shade across the apical veins reverting towards the middle of the costa and downwards parallel with the termen to the dorsum, which it follows to the base (this faint shade is composed of scattered scales and would probably be even less conspicuous in a caught specimen); around the termen and apex is a series of fuscous dots, about eight in number: cilia pale fawn. Exp. al. 24 mm. Hindwings shining whitish; cilia the same, tinged with fawn along the limbus. Abdomen pale fawn. Legs whitish fawn.

Type ♂. MUS. OXF. [Wlsm. Det. 12 (1893).]

3627. Odites hederæ, Wlsm. sp. n.

Antennæ pale fawn, faintly annulate with brown. Palpi (somewhat shorter than in bambusæ, but of the same form) median joint scarcely recurved, terminal joint slightly recurved; pale fawn, median joint tinged with brown externally. Head pale fawn, slightly tinged with brown above. Thorax pale fawn, tinged with brown. Forewings, apex considerably produced, termen very oblique; pale fawn, mottled with brown and brownish fuscous, the extreme base of the costa suffused with brownish fuscous scales; a strong group of brown mottlings appears to arise from the dorsum near the base, crossing the fold obliquely outwards and terminating in two patches of brownish fuscous, the one on the cell somewhat diffused, the other narrow and running along the fold; a fascia-form brownish shade, intermixed with brownish fuscous scales, leaves the middle of the costa and, gradually reduced in width, reaches to the dorsum before the tornus; this is followed before the apex by one or two short longitudinal streaks of brownish fuscous, which do not quite reach the costal cilia; along the termen is a series of five or six rather small brownish fuscous spots, the pale fawn cilia being divided by a brownish line. Exp. al. ♂ 21 mm., ♀ 28 mm. Hindwings shining whitish fawn, cilia the same. Abdomen and Legs pale fawn.

Wallengren (l. c. No. 2) figures a specimen from China which is inseparable from niveigutta, Wkr., and identifies it with Phalana Tinea fabriciella, Swederus. A careful study of the original description of fabriciella shows that Swederus had before him not Atteva niveigutta, Wkr., but Corinea niviguttella, Wkr. The head is described as 'niveum' and the thorax as 'niveus cruce fulva'; both these characters could only be applied to niviguttella. The forewings are described as being 'transverse subtilissime striatæ, aureæ, subnitidæ,' &c.; this applies much better to niviguttella, Wkr., than to niveigutta, Wkr.; the golden brown colour in the latter is so much more extensive, that one would have expected it to be taken as the ground-colour, and to have read that it was varied by numerous white spots. The type is stated to be in 'Mus. D. Lee'—it would be interesting if this old collection could be traced.

[Drnt.]

As Walker described two similar species under almost identical special names. it seems advisable to give the synonymy of niviguttella, Wkr. (= fabriciella, Swed.), which is not represented in the Oxford Museum collection.

Wallengren in describing the genus Amblothridia (= Atteva) observes the slenderness of the legs but not the difference between those of the ♂ and ♀, nor the partial abortion of these organs.

3662. Atteva subaurata, Drnt. sp. n.

Antennæ metallic fuscous. Palpi white, the apex of the median and terminal joints brown. Head white. Thorax golden, with two white spots posteriorly and one on the tegulæ; patagia white, anteriorly golden. Forewings shining bone-whitish, with a golden tinge at the base; apical third of costa, apex and termen golden-orange; cilia the same, their tips bone-ochreous. Underside orange-ochreous. Exp. al. 26–28 mm. Hindwings thinly scaled, costa bone-whitish, the veins golden-orange and the remaining wing-surface irrorated with the same; cilia golden-orange; underside orange-ochreous. Abdomen bone-whitish, the somites edged with (or sometimes entirely suffused with) golden-orange; anal tuft golden-orange; on the underside the somites are edged with whitish. Legs, the two anterior pairs smoky brown, with a white spot at the base, another at about the middle, and a third at the extremity of the tibiæ; basal joint of the tarsi white; hind legs bone-whitish.

BUXETA, Wkr.

Type. Sarbena conflagens, Wkr.

§ SARBENA, Wkr., Cat. Lp. Ins. BM. XXXI. 256 (1864). = BUXETA, Wkr., Cat. Lp. Ins. BM. XXXV. 1982 (1866).

[§ homonymous with Sarbena, Wkr., Lp. (1862).]

Neuration: forewings, 12 veins, all separate; 8 and 9 approximate at base; an internal vein from 5 to beyond 11; 1 furcate at base; hindwings, 8 veins, all separate; 4 and 5, as also 6 and 7, somewhat approximate at base; 2 remote from 3 on margin; an internal vein from between 5 and 6 to base; 1 a with a short fork at base.

Allied to Themiscyra, Wkr., but differing in the palpi being more recurved and more closely appressed to the face, and in the shorter terminal joint. In the hindwings veins 4 and 5 are separate, but 5 is bent over towards 4 at its origin; in Themiscyra veins 4 and 5 are stalked.

Type. (Coll. Saunders) MUS. OXF.

Hab. MALAYSIA—GILOLO^{1, 2} (Wallace), one specimen. MUS. OXF. [Drint. Det. 3684 (1899).]

This species agrees with the type of Buxeta, except that vein 9 of the forewings is not approximated to 10 on the costa. The genera allied to Mieza, Wkr., have been referred by some authors to the Lithosiadæ, and by others to the Hyponomeutidæ. When these have been collated aureocuprea may perhaps be included elsewhere, but the structural difference between it and conflagrans is so slight that it would certainly be unwise to separate them on account of the slight variation in a single vein in the unique types of the two species. [Drint.]

MIEZA, Wkr.

§ EUSTIXIS, Hb., Zutr. Samml. exot. Schm. III. 24 (1825). = MIEZA, Wkr., Cat. Lp. Ins. BM. II. 527 (1854). = ENÆMIA, Z., Verh. ZB. Ges. Wien. XXII. (1872) Abh. 562 (1872).

Sufficient confusion has already arisen between the genera Eustixia, Hb. (type pupula, Hb.), and Eustixis, Hb. (type pupula, Hb.), to justify the adoption of Mieza, Wkr., in lieu of Eustixis, Hb.

3667. Mieza (?) sanguinicornis, Wlsm. sp. n.

Antennæ blood-red, basal joint bright yellow. Palpi upturned, reaching to the top of the head, of even width throughout; blood-red, terminal joint bright yellow. Head bright yellow, with a reddish tinge posteriorly. Thorax bright yellow, with a transverse blood-red band across the middle. Forewings pale yellow; an irregular blood-red streak starting from the base follows the dorsum to its middle; at the middle of the dorsum it rises obliquely upward, and passing across the fold (along which it sends a short branch to the tornus) reaches the costa before the apex, and is continued along the base of the cilia around the apex and termen; another blood-red patch occupies the extreme base of the costa, and sends a somewhat bifurcate streak along the cell to one-third the length of the wing, where its lower point touches the fold; immediately above and before the tornus a slight excrescence protrudes upwards from the red streak; cilia yellow on their outer half; underside uniformly blood-red, the extreme margins narrowly yellow. Exp. al. 19 mm. Hindwings roseate; cilia with a faint yellowish tinge on their outer half; underside roseate, with a red shade along the costa. Abdomen roseate. Legs pale ochreous, with a roseate tinge on the hind tibiæ.

Hab. [CEYLON (G. Lewis). Mus. Wlsm.]

MUS. OXF. One specimen, Ceylon (Thwaites, 1873). [Wlsm. Det. 60 (1893).]

This is not a true Mieza, differing in veins 3 and 4 of the hindwings, being connate instead of separate at origin. At present it seems inadvisable to describe a new genus for its reception.

PSEUDOCAPRIMA, Wlsm. gn. n.

(ψευδος = falsehood ; Caprima, nom. gen.)

Type. Pseudocaprima callopisma, Wlsm.

= CAPRIMA, Wkr., Cat. Lp. Ins. BM. XXXI. 128-9 (1864) [partim, ♀ (nec ♂)].

Antennæ (♀) minutely biciliate. Labial Palpi smooth, porrect, not reaching beyond the face. Haustellum well developed. Head and Thorax smooth. Forewings broad, elongate, narrower towards the base, costa slightly and evenly rounded, apex obtuse, termen moderately straight, somewhat oblique. Neuration : 12 veins ; 2 from very near angle of cell ; 5 and 6 remote but parallel ; 7 and 8 stalked, enclosing the apex ; 9 separate. Hindwings as broad as the forewings, apex rounded, termen convex. Neuration : 8 veins ; 4 nearer to 5 than to 3 ; 6 and 7 separate but slightly approximating ; 8 from base ; 1^a, 1^b, 1^c, present. Abdomen smooth. Legs smooth, spurs short.

It will probably be found that the ♂ has strongly biciliate or bipectinate antennæ.

The two species differ from Caprima gelida, Wkr., and Caprimima albicollis, Pgnstchr., in their neuration, but the pattern and colouring of all are so similar, that confusion might easily arise as already proved by previous experience.

3668. Pseudocaprima callopisma, Wlsm. sp. n.

= Caprima gelida*, Wkr., Cat. Lp. Ins. BM. XXX. 129 (1864) [partim, ♀ New Guinea] ; Swinh., Cat. East. & Austral. Lp. Het. Oxf. Mus. I. 61, No. 265 (1892) [partim, 'b. Antennæ brownish fuscous. Palpi fuscous. Head and Thorax brownish fuscous ; tegulæ with a slight purple tinge ; patagia with a white spot at their outer edge. Forewings dark purplish fuscous, with a broad snow-white band arising from the dorsum before the middle, slightly attenuate at its upper extremity and nearly reaching to the costa ; beyond it is a broad chestnut-red patch, margined except on the dorsum by the purplish ground-colour ; cilia purplish fuscous (these are somewhat injured, but there is a slight indication that they were tipped with white on the middle of the termen, but not at the tornus) ; underside as above. Exp. al. 30 mm. Hindwings purplish fuscous, with a broad white patch extending to the base and reaching beyond the middle, but not overflowing the limbus, although touching the margin at the flexus, beyond it a chestnut-red patch occurs before the apex, through which veins 6 and 7 form two dark lines; cilia brownish fuscous; underside as above. Abdomen dark fuscous; anal segment and underside white. Legs brownish fuscous, without white tarsal bands.

Antennæ [missing]. Palpi short, not extending to the front; dark fuscous. Head and Thorax fuscous; patagia with a white spot at their outer edge; tegulæ fuscous. Forewings dark brownish fuscous, with a slight tawny gloss; a large white spot arising from the dorsum before the middle, tending somewhat obliquely outward, rounded at its upper extremity and nearly reaching to the costa; a rich chestnut-red patch beyond it is broadly margined by the dark ground colour, except where its lower extremity, somewhat attenuate, touches the dorsum before the tornus; cilia purplish fuscous, their outer two-thirds on the middle of the termen and at the tornus white; underside as above, the white cilia very visible. Exp. al. 32 mm. Hindwings with the whole of the basal half snow-white, except the limbus which is narrowly tawny fuscous; their outer half tawny fuscous, with a faintly indicated diffused patch of chestnut-red before the apex; cilia purplish; underside as above, but the red apical patch is much more clearly defined. Abdomen dark greyish fuscous; anal extremity and the underside white. Legs brownish fuscous, without tarsal bands.

This species is very closely allied to callopisma, but differs noticeably in the two snow-white patches in the cilia of the forewings, in the rather broader white stripes, in the deeper tint of the red patch and in the less apparent red patch near the apex of the hindwings.

ANDROGYNE, Wlsm. gn. n.

(androgynæ = hermaphrodite.)

Type. Androgynæ punctata, Wlsm.

Antennæ bipectinate in both sexes, the pectinations in the ♂ slightly longer than in the ♀, each pectination ciliate; basal joint enlarged. Maxillary Palpi short, depressed. Labial Palpi short, porrect. Haus-tellum clothed. Ocelli obsolete. Head thickly clothed with long recumbent scales. Thorax stout, smooth. Forewings elongate, subovate, costa evenly arched, apex rounded, termen oblique, dorsum scarcely convex; in the ♂ the underside is covered with long hair-like scales along the cell and below the fold, these are also observable in the ♀. Neuration: 12 veins; 1 furcate at base, the fork extending to nearly half the length of the vein; the fold between veins 1 and 2 chitinous; 2 and 3 form a recurved common stem from tornal angle of cell; the other veins separate; an internal vein from the base, forked in the middle of the cell, its branches running to 5 and 6 respectively; a supplementary cell formed by an internal vein from between 7 and 8 to between 10 and 11. Hindwings broader than the forewings, costa convex in middle, apex rounded, termen and dorsum evenly rounded; with a patch of strong hair-like scales above near the base of vein 1^b and another between veins 1^b and 1^c. Neuration: 8 veins; 3 and 4 form a short stalk; 6 and 7 separate; 1^b furcate at base; the termen of cell deeply indented between 5 and 6, from which indentation an internal vein runs to the base. Abdomen stoutish, flattened at the sides; ♀ with the ovipositor shortly extruded. Legs smooth; hind tibiæ with short spurs, the inner slightly longer than the outer.

Allied to Nosymna, Wkr. (Cat. Lp. Ins. BM. XXIX. 831-2).

3674. Androgyne punctata, Wlsm. sp. n.

Antennæ white at the base, brownish fuscous beyond. Palpi black, median joint white beneath. Head white. Thorax white, with two purplish fuscous spots anteriorly between the tegulæ, and a transverse series of three similar spots posteriorly. Forewings dull white, with a slight greyish tinge not reaching the costa; profusely sprinkled with dark purple spots, varying in their number and distribution; at the middle of the extreme base is one larger than the others, and a little beyond it above the fold is a slight agglomeration of spots, sometimes forming a short dash; a narrow streak along the extreme edge of the costa at the base; the spots are for the most part round, except where two or three are confluent, the number would be about fifty (more or less) in each wing; cilia concolorous with the wing, unspotted: underside uniformly dark leaden grey, a slight brownish tinge along the middle, margins narrowly paler; a few spots (not corresponding with those above) irregularly and by no means uniformly placed occur, but not invariably, in both sexes. Exp. al. ♀. 68 mm. Hindwings and cilia leaden grey; underside uniformly dark leaden grey, the margins narrowly paler, sometimes with spots, as in the forewings. Abdomen darker than the hindwings, the somites marked with narrow paler bands. Legs as dark as the abdomen, spurs and hind tibiæ dirty whitish.

SAPHTHA, Wkr.

SAPHTHA, Wkr., Cat. Lp. Ins. BM. XXX. 1015 (1864).

3675. Saphtha elegans, Wlsm. sp. n.

Antennæ ciliate, thickly clothed to nearly three-fourths; purple. Palpi porrect, reaching the length of the head beyond it; brownish externally, whitish beneath and on their inner sides. Head brown; face metallic green. Thorax olive-brown, with three longitudinal bright metallic green streaks, one median and one on each side along the inner edge of the tegulæ. Forewings olive-brown on the basal half, which contains four bright metallic green streaks; one from the base immediately below the costa, one from the middle of the base pointing to the middle of the termen, one from the base below the fold, shorter and parallel with the dorsum; the fourth is transverse, reaching from the costa to the dorsum before the middle of the wing, with a slight break or indentation on the fold—the longitudinal streaks do not reach so far as the transverse streak, but leave before it a space about equal to the extension of the olive-brown colouring beyond it; at the middle of the wing the olive-brown colouring becomes suffused with bright iridescent cupreous purple lustre, continued to the apex and termen, the ground-colour showing only along the extreme margin and in a few irregular patches about the apical portion of the wing; cilia olive-brown at their base, iridescent steely-grey on their outer half. Exp. al. 14 mm. Hindwings white along the costa and in a large semi-transparent patch extending from the middle to the limbus, this has an iridescent rosy purple hue; the apex and outer border of the wing to the flexus with a broad brown band which is produced inwards towards the base along the upper margin of the cell; cilia white. Abdomen brownish, the somites marked with iridescent steel-grey bands. Legs: hind tibiæ brown, the tarsi white, banded and spotted above with brown.

LIPSOTELUS, Wlsm. gn. n.

(λειψότελος = having lost its end.)

Type, ♂ ♀. Lipsotelus lichenoides, Wlsm.

Antennæ ♂, simple. Palpi porrect, median joint thickly clothed throughout above and below, but not loosely tufted; terminal joint short, porrect. Head roughly clothed above. Thorax not tufted. Forewings narrow at the base, widening outwards, costa with a rounded projection beyond the middle, thence abruptly excavate to the apex, ♂ without a costal fold; apex slightly falcate, termen strongly convex, tornus rounded, dorsum moderately straight. Neuration: 12 veins, all separate;

3 recurved to the termen; 7 to below apex; 10 arising nearer to 11 than to 9. Hindwings broader than the forewings, apex rounded, termen rounded, but slightly bulged above the tornus. Neuration: 8 veins; 3 and 4 connate; 5 closely approximate to 4 at base; 6 and 7 separate; 8 running very nearly to the apex. Abdomen normal. Legs smooth, hind tibiae with a very slight hair-pencil.

This genus agrees with Lobesia, Gn., in having vein 10 of the forewings nearer to 11 than to 9, but differs in vein 5 of the forewings, approaching much nearer to vein 4 at its origin as well as in the excavate costa of the forewings.

[The genus Lipsotelus being founded on an unpublished species, it is necessary to include here a description of its type:—

Lipsotelus lichenoides, Wlsm. sp. n. Antennæ brownish fuscous, a small pale ochreous spot in front at the junction of the basal joint with the head. Palpi brownish fuscous, snow-white beneath to the middle of the median joint. Head brownish fuscous. Thorax brownish fuscous in front, posteriorly shading to dark olive-green; underside shining snow-white. Forewings dark olive-brown, mottled with black on the basal half towards the costa and shading to dark olive-green on two-thirds of the dorsal half of the wing; the black beneath the costa is divided into two or three irregular blotches, the first very near the base, the second, more or less confused with the third, a little before the middle; the extreme costa pale ochreous, spotted throughout with black; the green-shaded dorsal half is reticulated with fuscous, a quadrate patch before the middle and a smaller one beyond it more thickly so than the remainder; a strong tuft of olive-green scales projects from near the base of the dorsum; on the apical third of the wing towards the tornus, and on the apical half towards the costa, the olive-brown ground-colour is sparsely dotted with black and sprinkled with rosy steel-grey, especially about the termen, and a slender line of black dots follows the extreme margin; cilia pale brownish cinereous, with a slender darker shade along their base; the tornal cilia are touched with fuscous; underside dark fuscous, the costa brownish ochreous, cilia pale brownish ochreous. Exp. al. 22 mm. Hindwings dark fuscous; cilia pale brownish cinereous, greyish fuscous about the abdominal angle; underside dark fuscous, cilia pale brownish ochreous. Abdomen dark fuscous; pale ochreous beneath. Legs ochreous, tarsi spotted with dark fuscous.

Type ♂ ♀. Mus. Wlsm. Hab. TENASSERIM—Mergui (Doherty).]

3679. Lipsotelus albifascies, Wlsm. sp. n.

Antennæ (broken). Palpi white, slightly shaded with cinereous above. Head pale cinereous, face white. Thorax greyish brown, white beneath. Forewings whitish cinereous, shaded and streaked with greyish brown; a dark greyish brown lanceolate shade runs from the base half-way along the lower edge of the cell, separated by a slender whitish cinereous line from a rather lighter greyish brown shade which occupies the greater part of the dorsum; the remainder of the wing is sprinkled and shaded with grey and contains several longitudinal brownish streaks and spots, except on the part below and parallel to the costa; on the costa are a number of oblique, slender, rich chestnut-brown streaks, the apex also is chestnut-brown, and a slender line of the same colour runs along the termen; cilia whitish cinereous, tipped with brownish ochreous, a black streak running through them at the apex; underside greyish fuscous, the margins narrowly pale ochreous, a black spot in the apical cilia. Exp. al. 17 mm.

Hindwings greyish fuscous; cilia cinereous, with a slender subochreous line along their base; underside greyish fuscous, slightly paler than in the forewings. Abdomen greyish fuscous, subochreous beneath. Legs whitish ochreous, hind tarsal joints spotted with greyish fuscous.

'Larva yellow, naked, about an inch long, leaf-roller on a common jungle bush at Ootacamund. Pupa light brown, No. 951' (Minchin MS.).

The neuration of this species agrees with that of the type, except that in the hindwings vein 4 is bent up towards 5, and runs parallel with it to its junction with the base of 3; 8 runs closely parallel with the edge of the cell to the origin of 7, being diverted to the costa.

EUCELIS, Hb.

EUCELIS, Hb., Verz. bek. Schm. 394 (1826).

3680. Euocelis vulnerata, Wlsm. sp. n.

Antennæ fuscous. Pulpi projecting the length of the head beyond it, terminal joint conspicuous; bright orange. Head bright orange. Thorax greyish, tegulæ touched with orange. Forewings, on the basal two-thirds pale olivaceous, with numerous bright orange-red streaks tending to assume a more or less defined pattern; three or four arising on the costa are curved obliquely outwards, and others arising on the dorsum extend obliquely upwards and outwards; the extreme costa is minutely speckled with fuscous; at two-thirds of the wing-length commences a brilliant orange-red patch, covering the remainder of the wing, much mottled and reticulated with black, and with three pairs of bright ochreous streaklets on the extreme costa; the inner border of this apical patch is divided from the paler portion of the wing by a continuous shining dark steel-grey line, slightly waved, and more or less margined with blackish scales; cilia dark steel-grey, with a slender blackish line running through them. Exp. al. 10.5 mm. Hindwings dull brownish; cilia pale greyish, with a brownish line running through their middle. Abdomen dull brownish. Legs greyish.

Antennæ pale brownish. Palpi, Head, and Thorax tawny brown. Forewings: ♂, with the costal fold extending more than one-third from the base, and ending somewhat abruptly (wider than in xylosteanus, L.); purplish grey, with tawny brown blotches and streaks; a streak from near the base of the dorsum crosses the fold obliquely outwards, ending in a reverted point on the disc, narrowly margined with whitish ochreous scales, a patch of the same colour lying on its inner edge above the fold; beyond it is a broad tawny brown shade, beginning narrowly on the costa at the outer end of the costal fold, expanding obliquely outwards and blending into the more greyish ground-colour about the tornus, this is also narrowly margined by a whitish ochreous line, and its inner edge is slightly angulated on the fold; a more or less triangular tawny brown costal patch, commencing beyond the middle, reaches nearly to the apex, its outer edge joining with an extended streak of the same colour which reaches to the lower half of the termen, and is sharply angulated at its inner edge, containing at its widest part two streaks of black scales following the lines of the veins; a smaller tawny brown patch lies at the extreme apex, the intermediate space between these costal and apical markings is much sprinkled with silvery grey scaling; cilia tawny, tipped with fuscous at the apex, their outer half along the middle of the apical margin tawny brown, inclining to ochreous about the tornus; underside greyish, the costal and apical portions ochreous, with large and conspicuous reticulations: ♀, the shape of the wing is that of podanus, Sc., ♀; there is less of the tawny brown colour, and the ground-colour of the wing is more inclined to greyish fawn, having less of the purplish tinge. but this is somewhat variable; there is a faint indication of the same pattern of markings, but the dorso-basal streak is not apparent, being replaced by a dorsal patch, which does not cross the fold, and is somewhat further removed from the base than in the δ ; this is of a purplish grey colour, as is also the central shade and the costal and apical patches; the streak reaching to the termen is not present, but the ground-colour of the wing is slightly reticulated with purplish grey; there is a slight spot at the middle of the cell opposite to the middle of the costal patch; underside greyish, the costal and apical portions ochreous, with only the faintest indication of reticulations. Exp. al. δ 16-21, φ 22-24 mm. Hindwings: δ , greyish, with a slight reddish ochreous tinge about their apex; cilia greyish; underside greyish, the costal and apical portions ochreous, with large and conspicuous greyish reticulations: φ as in the δ , but with a distinct fringe of tawny grey scales on the costal; underside as in the δ , but with only the faintest indication of reticulations. Abdomen greyish, anal tuft slightly paler. Legs cinereous.

In the φ the shape of the forewing resembles that of podanus, Sc. (φ), differing much in this respect from the European xylosteanus, L., in which the φ more nearly resembles the δ ; moreover there is a thickened fringe of scales on the costa of the hindwings in the φ , resembling that which distinguishes the φ of decretanus, Tr., from podanus, Sc., φ .

a. Sarawak ♂ ♀ (Wallace).

GENUS HERCHUNDA. nov.

♂ Palpi curved, upturned, reaching just above vertex of head, smooth, third joint half as long as second, thorax hairy, with up-standing tufts, abdomen hairy, with ridges of hair on the two basal segments, enormous dorsal tufts on the anal segments, and a rather long anal tuft, pectus with long tufts of hairs, legs with fringes of long hairs and stout rather long spurs: hind-wings with a large patch of thickly packed long hairs on the abdominal margin covering the lower half of the margin: fore-wing rather short, apex nearly rectangular, hinder margin rounded: hind-wing with the outer margin evenly curved.

2081*. Phyllodes consobrina.

c. Assam (type) (Jenkins).

2134 A. Boethantha guttulosa. nov. Pl. III. f. 6.

♂ Palpi, head, antennæ, and thorax ochreous brown, inner sides of palpi pale ochreous, a broad bright ochreous band on fore-part of thorax, abdomen blackish brown; fore-wings with a pale ochreous ground colour, so thickly irrorated with brown atoms as to make the whole of the wing ochreous brown, with the exception of the discal portions, where the ochreous ground colour is more or less visible, a black spot above the hinder margin near the angle, and a number of elongated brown smaller spots around and above it, cilia brown; hind-wings blackish brown, with a broad pale ochreous band, narrowing to the anal angle, which it does not reach, cilia pale ochreous.

Expanse of wings, 2 inches.

a. Sarawak, Borneo (type) (Wallace). b. Borneo.

This insect, on which I found Walker's label of Osca guttulosa, got inadvertently put as such, in p. 194, No. 2168; it has the shape and appearance of an Avitta but the structure and venation of Baethantha. Osca guttulosa, Walker, the type of which is in the B. M., is the same as Rhodoneura pudicula, Guen., as shown at p. 409, No. 3118.

GENUS ADRAPSA. Walker: xvi. 169 (1858).

Lusia. Walker: xiii. 1113 (1857) (præocc.).

2187*. Adrapsa titysusalis. Pl. IV. f. 19.

The type is a female; I have lately received a number of both sexes from Sarawak, I find it belongs to the Genus Adrapsa.

2492 A. Evarzia ruptaria.

Macaria ruptaria. Walker: xxiii. 937 (1861).
